Unique Deductions.

He declared in opening that he was up for "rigid inspection and general approaction," and this created a ripple of laughter, which recurred often before he concluded his remarks.

"If you give me, or, even someone less capable, your approval for this office, you may have a good Mayor," he went on. "Such a man put into the position would be an improvement on present conditions, without the endangering of health by overwork."

The speaker then paid a glowing tribute to the life of General Lee, and said though he had made one blunder, the world had been quick to forget it. He described Jackson as an awkward, stupid looking youth, who had been looked upon as half crazy, while at school, and yet which had encircled the globe with his fame within three years as a solder. Taking up King Edward and Emperor William, the speaker pictured them as having had unsavory records in their carrier days, and he paid them both glowing tributes as rulers, beloved by their own people, and honored and respected by the civilized world.

Charged With Folly.

"The next man on the list is me," he caid, and a burst of laughter, "and I have been charged with every crime and folly laid at, the doors of both Edward and William." The other two men's lives were spotless; though they may have made mistukes."

"If I have been guilty of indiscretions, I appeal that in their charity and generosity the people will forget them and give me their confidence, in return for which I promise a faithful discharge of public duty and my best endeavors to make this a prosperous and happy city. "I beg them to overlook my shortcomings, and rocal some of the things I have done for the advancement of better municipal conditions.

"The result of my two campaigns for Mayor has set the standard of the office so high that the man who undertakes to measure up to it will feel that the cyce of an intelligent and watchful constituency are constantly upon him,

"Let me remind you, my friends, that this is no ordinary period through which we are passing. If you continue to regard the mayoralty the finest joke in your municipal government, and neglect your duty as to the selection of good men for the Council, the time will come when your children will have cause to regret.

in favor of that broadest opportunity for public education. The public education and the city, he made a fine hit, which aroused great enthusiasm. "It I had my way," he said, "I would have the parks increased in numbers and in size, and allow the boys to play base-ball in them. Provide Play-Grounds.

"If our boys are driven from our streets and parks, they will seek the pool rooms and bar rooms of the city, and there fall into had habits.

"I hope that some man will yet be raised up, with heart and brains big enough to devise some scheme to afford the boys proper facilities to play without having to hear on every hand, "There comes a cop!"

The Lost Was Found.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

FREDERICKSBURG, VA., April 19.—

Mr. Edward Gill, of Stanford county, lost his pocket-book, containing 120, on the main road between Widewater and Onville, nearly a year ago. A few days since he was going over the same route in a buggy with his wife, and at the foot of a steep hill got out to walk up to lighten the load, when his eye fell on a dark object in a gully on the side of the road, and going to it he kicked it up out of the ditch. It turned out to be his pocket-book, which had been lost menths before and had escaped the eyes of all passers-by. Notwithstanding the exposure to weather, mud and water, it was found to be intact, and its contents had not been disturbed.

Application for Leave to Intervene in Northern Securities Case Is Denied.

DISTRIBUTION PLAN LEGAL

The Court on Four Specific Grounds Decides Against the Petitioners.

(By Associated Press.)

ST. PAUL, MINN., April 19.-In the United States Circuit Court to-day Judges Sanborn, Thayer, Van de Vanter and Hook unanimously denied the application of E. H. Harriman and W. S. Pierce and the Oregon Short Line Railroad Company for leave to intervene in the case of the United States against the Northern Securities Com pany on the following grounds:

First. The plan of the directors of the Northern Securities Company for the distribution of the stock of the Great distribution of the stock of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railway Companies is not violative of the decree in the Northern Securities case.

Second. No one but the United States can successfully appeal to the court to enjoin the execution of that plan on the ground that it is in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act, and the United States expresses satisfaction with the present decree.

Fourth. An intervention is not necessary to enable the petitioners to protect only pecuniary interest or equity they have.

Judgo Thayer delivered the opinion. The court in speaking of the contention of Harriman and Pierce, that the proposed plan of disposing of the stock of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern Railroad Companies would result in leaving the control of the two railroads in the hands of persons who co-operated in the hands of persons who co-operated in forming the Securities Company, says: "According to well established rules, the petitioner cannot intrude into this litigation merely to protect the public interest so long as the government is present by its Attorney-General and expresses its disapproval of such intrusion. The petitioners can intervene only for the protection of their own individual intrests and for that purpose only, in the event that they can obtain adequate protection in no other way.

"The United States stands on the decree as affirmed and submits that the court is only concerned to see that it is faithfully observed by the defendants, according to its terms. In view of this declaration on the part of the United States it is be presumed that the government is disposed to permit the stocklitigation merely to protect the public ineriment is disposed to permit the stock-holders of the Securities Company to formulate some plan for the equitable disposition of the stock of the two rail-way companies if they can do so which will not be in violation of law, feeling confident of its ability to dissolve any future combination in restraint of inter-cante commerce should one in fact result from any scheme that may be devised for the disposition of the stock of the two companies and preferring to chal-

COLLEGE TEAM RETURNS.

Took Spite for Former Defeats Out on Hampden-Sidney.

The Richmond College base-ball team returned last night from a week's trip through the western part of the State. The team left Wednesday morning of last week and played Virginia Military Institute in Lesington last Thursday. On Friday Washington and Lee was played, also in Lexington. Both days were extremely cold, and the former game was played in the rain, so that the exhibition of ball on both sides was rather poor. Saturday morning the team left Lexington for Roanoke, playing Roanoke Collego that afternoon. This day was also very cold, but in spite of this both sides played a fast game. Roanoke won, 7 to 2. Fortune seemed to favor the home team, for with three men or base a lucky hit rolled up the score, while, when Richmond's chance came with three men on, the last man up was caught out by the center fielder.

The team spent Saturday night and the following Sunday in Roanoke; left late Sunday evening for Virginia Military Institute, and arrived in Blacksburg late that night. On the following Monday the Virginia Polytechnic Institute game was played, and Richmond lost to the home team, 10 to 0. Here, loo, the visitors were piaced at a disadvantage on account of the cold weather. Snow fell the day before, and the Richmond boys actually seemed to freeze. The Virginia Polytechnic Institute team owed her victory to her heavy hitting, while Fitzpatrick seemed to puzzle the college boys a great deal. Richmond left Virginia Polytechnic Institute Monday night and arrived in Farmville at 3 A. M., worn out, but determined to get together and win from their old rivals—Hampden-Sidney. The chances were in favor of Hampden-Sidney, as they had held Virginia Polytechnie Institute down to 400; but Richmond went at them from start to finish, and defeated them in a beautiful game, by the score of 13 to 5. Richmond played the strongest game of the year against Hampden-Sidney, her batting and fielding being of the highest order. Hampden-Sidney is far from satisfied with the result, and say that they are coming to Richmond Saturday to win or die.
